As the Christian Church in Indiana, we are people joined and knit together in love. The Christmas Offering is an opportunity to support the regional ministry we share with one another. It supports the work of teams that meet with students preparing for ordination. It helps send out our regional staff to meet with congregations and pastors. It allows us to offer a tremendous summer camp program for children, youth and adults. It helps us connect to partners in mission throughout the world. It provides training sessions for clergy. And so much more. Together, we gather our resources so we can collectively do ministry in the name of Jesus Christ.

This year on our website you are provided with materials that help interpret this special offering. Share the stories in your newsletters, in bulletins, on your webpage, on your Facebook page or on a screen at worship. You can also use these graphics in communication pieces that you create for your congregation. There is even a poster that can be printed and used in your community.

Your gifts to the Christmas Offering encourage, inspire, build-up, support and connect. Your generosity makes a difference in our communities and in our world.

Creating Communities of Faith
Where I’ll Feel Welcome

The story is told of a children’s Christmas pageant where the child playing the innkeeper really struggled with his line. He knew that he was supposed to turn away the expectant couple when they knocked on his door for lack of rooms in his establishment but it pained him to have to do so. So on the night of the performance he delivered his line as he had been coached, communicating the lack of vacancy, and the option, if they so chose, to lay down their head in his stables. But he couldn’t stop there. Before they left, he said, “I don’t have a room for you, but would you like to come in for some cookies?”

I would like to think that any young person in one of our congregations thrust into the uncomfortable role of having to turn Mary and Joseph away at the door would have a similar twinge of conscience. Within the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), from our beginning, we have tried to create communities of faith where all would feel welcome. Our founders believed that the division of the church, and the divisions of society itself, was a scandal. They believed that unity was a gift to be claimed which should not be misunderstood as the same as uniformity. True community, in their view, should not only tolerate, but embrace diversity as gifts that enhanced the fellowship.

I see this happening in many places in the Indiana Region. An inclusive welcome is emblazoned on our doors and communicated by welcoming greeters. If you worship at 201 E. Epler Avenue in Indianapolis on Sundays, depending on which room you enter you could be in one of three Disciples congregations who meet in the same building—and you would find yourself welcomed in any of them whether it be the Congolese Disciples, the Chin Disciples, or the Southport Christian Church. Youth from several of our congregations, representing a diversity of races and geography, are now gathering regularly to better understand their differences and discover their commonality.

In addition to offering meals, and food, and clothing for those in need, a number of our congregations house homeless families in their buildings in rotation with neighboring churches. I think that effort would please that young innkeeper who was so reluctant to turn the Holy Family away—even in a play.

This sense of welcome and eagerness to engage the stranger may feel challenged in a time when worshippers have lost their lives by the senseless action of an individual who entered their building with a gun. We grieve the loss of life of members of the First Baptist Church in Sutherland Springs, Texas. We must continue our prayers for them, as well as all those in Las Vegas and the over 300 other communities in the U.S. where mass shootings have occurred this year: We must work with law enforcement and legislators and civic leaders to create safer communities. This is not simply about gun laws. This is a national health crisis which needs our full attention.

But we cannot and should not change the message on our doors or the greeting we encourage our doorkeepers to offer. The Insurance Board of our church offers good advice on emergency preparedness for congregations for a whole variety of life threatening circumstances and may be accessed at www.insuranceboard.org. Their wise counsel does not include arming our ushers though. Nor do the scriptures suggest we do so. Mary and Joseph got turned away, to be sure, but we should strive as best we can to welcome in all others.

May the spirit of the Christ child enter your heart and the life of your church this Advent season.

Meet Your Moderator!

A senior at Indiana Academy for Science, Mathematics and Humanities, Allison Marie Nash has served on the Indiana Youth Council for three years. She was inspired in part by her older brother, Ethan who had served before her. Allison began attending Park Christian Church from a young age, and recently began attending First Christian Church, New Castle. Although undecided on where she’ll attend college, Allison hopes to major in Peace Studies and minor in Japanese, with the intention to become an International Christian Missionary. In her free time, Allison enjoys acting, playing ukulele, and writing. She has participated in Speech Team, Literature Club, and Art Club functions. Allison is proud that she can serve her denomination in this way, and hopes to have a positive impact on the Disciples of Christ in Indiana during the months she will serve as Moderator.

The Indiana Christian Church collects an offering.

The church has a deep commitment to serve. Church names (formerly First and 1871), and had other ing built between 1865 and 1871, and had other names (formerly First Christian Church). Church members gathered on Sunday, September 24, 2017 to remember and to celebrate 175 years of faithful service to God and community while thinking about the future and how the congregation is called to serve.

Wabash Christian Church has a deep commitment to community. Each month of the year has a local mission for which the church collects an offering, Church members volunteer to make and serve meals at Helping Hands, which provides a hot meal to those in need in the community and also houses a thrift store. The church helps with rent and utility assistance for members of the community. On the first Sunday of the month, there is a food offering taken along with the monetary offering. The food goes to the local food pantry, FISH (Friends In Service Here). During the growing season, the church has a community garden in which church members and members of the community are encouraged to plant, water, harvest, and meet under a large tree for fellowship. The produce is given to FISH so that people who are food insecure can have fresh vegetables. It is estimated that this year’s growing season in the garden produced over 1,200 pounds of produce. In addition to the produce from the WCC Community Garden, several church and community members were inspired to also give to FISH from their gardens and several farms donated produce as well making the direct and indirect effort of the Wabash Christian Church Community Garden 2,000 pounds of fresh produce to those in need in the community.

WCC looks to its 176th year with hope and a firm commitment to God and God’s people.

The Free Little Pantry

The free little pantry in the yard at West Street Christian Church now has a dedication plaque attached to it. The Indiana Disciples of Christ are in partnership with the Congo Disciples of Christ, most specifically with the Mbandaka District of the 10th Community Disciples of Christ in Congo. West Street dedicated its free little pantry in honor of Mama Rosette Matezolo who runs a nutrition center for malnourished children in Mbandaka. As Disciples the two groups are united in feeding the hungry, both in Mbandaka and Tipton, Indiana.

A plaque of dedication was presented to Congolese Disciples partners Jean Robert Likuwo and Mama Rosette Matezolo by representatives of West Street: Rev. Linda McKernan-Allen and Mike Tolle, the builder of the free little pantry. These two Congolese visitors were also informed that West Street members had donated over $1,000 to the Nutrition Center and over $1,000 to Disciples 4 Water, an Edmond, Oklahoma group that builds simple-to-operate water wells in Congo.

Bedford First Christian Church Hosts Congolese

Several members of Bedford First Christian Church met with Rosette and Jean Robert at the end of their visit to southern Indiana churches. Rosette spoke about the work at the Nutrition Center which provides meals as well as education and a micro-credit program for mothers and children. In this way, they are able to meet the immediate need and help provide the tools for the future. She also mentioned that she had helped create a pharmacy to assist with medical needs.

Jean Robert also expressed sincere, heartfelt gratitude to the congregation for its financial assistance which has enabled them to purchase a much-needed saw and for the recent contribution of $3748 for help in digging additional water wells.

Please continue to hold Rosette and Jean Robert and all of the Mbandaka District of the Democratic Republic of the Congo in your prayers.
The partnership between the Disciples of the Christian Church in Indiana and the Disciples of Mbandaka District began officially with the signing of a partnership agreement in Mbandaka in May of 2008. The match was made by the Africa Office of Global Ministries with the blessing of the General Ministers of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in the U.S. and Canada and the Community of Disciples of Christ in Congo. We have learned much about each other and the relationships between the churches and between individuals have grown during these years of partnership.

The Indiana Region was honored to host Rosette Motezolo and Jean Robert Likuwo September 30 to October 16, 2017. During their time in Indiana, they visited churches from Evansville to Auburn and many points in between. Our guests experienced churches providing afterschool programs, health care and hot meals to the community, a forum on hunger, Bible study, and many varied worship services. Their time in Indiana also included a school visit and a visit to a WIC (Women, Infants, and Children) clinic, a visit to the archives at CTS, and meals shared with friends. They were also able to enjoy some tourist attractions around the state during their time here.

Because much of Mama Rosette’s work in Mbandaka is with the Nutrition Center that she founded and Disciples in Indiana have supported over the past ten years, many discussions were had about the differences and similarities in hunger and malnutrition in Congo and in the United States. Several Indiana congregations presented gifts of funds to continue to support the Nutrition Center as well as efforts to provide clean water. Gifts such as these are sent to Global Ministries to be transferred to the church in Congo.

Thank you to the many hands, prayers, and financial gifts that made this visit possible.
Southport Christian Church Chancel Choir Sings in Carnegie Hall

Bethany Christian, Evansville at Fall Festival

2017 marked the 20th anniversary of Bethany’s participation in Evansville’s West Side Nut Club’s annual Fall Festival. Fall Festival is the second largest street festival in the U.S. second only to Mardi Gras. The festival includes a traveling carnival complete with every ride imaginable, and (the best part) food booth trailers staffed by local non-profits. One can find anything from Bethany’s award winning bread pudding, to deep fried brain sandwiches. This year over 85 people helped dish up Bethany’s menu, 17 of which were friends of Bethany and nonmembers. By the end of the week, Bethany’s crew dished out:

- 1,080 cheesecake slices
- 1,404 apple dumplings
- 2,016 bread pudding servings
- 900 zippy chicky servings

All of the monies raised throughout the week go directly to supporting the mission and ministry of Bethany. More importantly however, Fall Festival is a chance to get to better know the members and friends that are connected with Bethany. The opportunity for fellowship is worth far more than any amount raised, or any number of dishes served out. Talk has begun about how to make the 21st year even better! If you happen to be in Evansville around the first week of October, make sure you add Fall Festival to your list of things to do. And don’t leave without stopping by the friendliest booth (as voted), Bethany, #24. There will be plenty of smiling faces AND delicious menu options.†

Disciple Churches Continued Support of Habitat for Humanity

According to Disciples News Service, Habitat for Humanity has built well over 300,000 homes for those who would otherwise never own their own home. Since their beginning over 1,300 Disciple congregations have been involved in their mission and have raised over $2 million toward the construction of these homes. The report goes on to say, “Habitat for Humanity International was founded by Millard and Linda Fuller after the couple served as Disciples missionaries to Zaire (now the Democratic Republic of the Congo). The Fullers began their housing ministry in Mbandaka, an impoverished community in western Zaire. Before they left Africa, the Fullers had overseen construction of 114 houses. After returning to the United States, they began the ministry of Habitat for Humanity to witness to the gospel of Jesus Christ by building homes in partnership with families in need.” The Indiana Region has far back as I can recall the Indianapolis area churches have either built a home, sponsored a panel build and/or worked on a build site to confirm our partnership with Habitat. The Indiana Region is dedicated to this partnership, which is reflected in the fact that First Christian Church in Bloomington houses their local office of Habitat for Humanity in the Campbell House which is located on the church property. Plus, each year many Disciples work on build sites such as: Women’s Build, Interfaith build, and individually sponsored builds. During the July 2017 General Assembly of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) our brothers and sisters in Christ helped to build the home in these photographs for Sebastian. One of the wonderful things is we actually did the work of construction inside the Convention Center. People from all across the country and from all walks of life with hammer and nails in hand built this house. It was a powerful statement of continued mission to reach out to those in need through charity and compassion. If you have an interest in sharing in a future Habitat for Humanity build (especially the one sponsored by GIDA) please contact our Indiana Regional Office or your local Habitat for Humanity office. Thank you all for making homes possible for others.†

The Manna Process reiterated the need for our region to renew relationships and connections with one another. Staffing is now configured to intentionally nurture relationships throughout the region. Some of our congregations have already found ways to share ministry. Other congregations are seeking these opportunities. This “Together” column is a space to celebrate the bridges being built and the ministries being shared. It will feature stories of coming together to be the region. If you have something you would like to highlight, send to Carolyn Reed, Associate Regional Minister.

Three Congregations Gathered for Pastoral Relations Committee Training

By Kyle Hunter, Pastor, Bethany Christian Church, Evansville

“There are just some things that we do better together, than apart.” Reverend Dick Hamm said to a group of Disciples seminary students at Christian Theological Seminary one fall day. Thanks to the work of Reverend Diane Zehr, three congregations from southern Indiana put Reverend Hamm’s words to the test. Corydon Christian, Floyds Knobs Christian and Bethany Christian, Evansville all gathered together and received training on how to have an effective Pastoral Relations Committee. Floyds Knobs graciously hosted the gathering that included the three ministers from each congregation as well as lay leaders representing their Pastoral Relations Committees (PRC). One of those in attendance was thankful to know that there are other congregations in the Indiana Region who had some of the same questions that their PRC was asking. Those in attendance reviewed the Revised Guidelines for the Pastoral Relations Committee published by Disciples Home Missions. After receiving an introduction to the material by Reverend Zehr, the combined group split up into small groups that included members from other congregations and then presented a section of the guidelines to the whole group. After the small groups presented their sections, Reverend Zehr closed with prayer and sent each congregation home with a candle. An invitation was also extended to light the candle at the next PRC gathering, to represent the presence of Christ burning within their midst, and perhaps as a reminder that there are just some things that we do better together, than apart.

The Indiana Women’s Council (IWC), Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), is in the process of examining what our role might look like in serving Indiana Disciples women for the next few years.

One prevalent need resulting from IWCs initial discussion regarding our future role is that of listening. We want to listen to you and your church women! We would love to meet with the ladies of your church whether that be a CWF group, a study group, a ladies’ luncheon or dinner, and/or an interested group of women.

We envision topics of our conversation to include:

- How do today’s Disciples Women want to connect with each other?
- How can the IWC enhance faith relationships among today’s Disciples Women?
- In what ways can the IWC improve communication among the Indiana Disciples Women?
- What is the future role of the IWC in respect to today’s church?

Please consider participating in our Listening Tour. Members of the IWC are willing to come to your church for this discussion. All we need is an invitation!

Once a date is agreed upon, we will send you a personalized invitation for your ladies in the form of a flyer, bulletin insert, letter and suggested email.

Please feel free to contact me by phone or text at 317-362-6344 or email: jschantz@franklincollege.edu, to schedule a visit from members of the Indiana Women’s Council. I look forward to hearing from you.

Anti-Racism Workshops Launched
By Rev. Bere Gil Soto, Regional Reconciliation Program Minister

In the midst of today’s tense political and social climate, where mass killings, deportations, racial profiling, and many other expressions of evil are threatening people’s lives and dignity, thirty ministers gathered on Saturday, November 11, 2017 for the first Anti-Racism & Pro-Reconciliation training for all commissioned and ordained ministers of the region.

It was a transforming moment where grace and mercy showed each one of us new ways in which we can continue doing ministry in ways that reflect the Realm of God, in ways in which justice and reconciliation become part of the Church’s DNA. Through the leadership of Rev. Yvonne Gilmore (Illinois) and Rev. Nathan Hill (Maryland), the training turned into a safe space for thinking critically and theologically about our identity as the body of Christ, and how the call to ministry of each individual can be a transformative agent for today’s society starting with our own religious policies and structures. Honesty, compassion, challenge, reassurance, and love were words used to describe what people experienced during the day. “It is not an easy thing to be willing to be uncomfortable and dig deep in the pain,” said one of the participants, “but if we want to heal this nation, we have to clean the wounds.”

At the end, the pressing question among the group was how to continue the work from the training, while moving forward and not let this be just one more check mark on their standing process. Immediately, the group began to respond, wanting to hold small group conversations with other ministers in their area, hosting book clubs on race and justice, and bringing together congregations through gatherings of “One Bag of Tea, One Conversation, One Relationship” initiative.

As the Reconciliation Program Minister for the Region, I know that indeed the work ahead is hard and difficult, but after having witnessed our ministers during this training, I am hopeful and excited to see what the Holy Spirit is doing in our Region.

If you have not signed up for it, go to our website and register for any of the upcoming trainings; I tell you, this is something you do not want to miss!

The Young Adult Retreat
By Holly Black

The Young Adult Retreat is a biannual weekend event that brings us together in fellowship, study, and worship with old and new friends from across the region. Often, as young adults, it can be hard to feel as though we have a place within our own church. The retreats offer a community who understands this struggle to belong in a faith community. We offer each other guidance and explore the ways in which we can act in the ministries of the church. We are grateful for strengthened faith journeys and for the connections made across the Christian Church in Indiana.
